Patient Graduation

H.M. came to Hanabusa IVF about 6 months ago, and after her first cycle, one embryo was euploid. After a short break, she returned for a fresh transfer of two embryos with Dr. Chang, and it was a success—she's pregnant! Last Friday, we celebrated her graduation and the exciting next chapter in her journey to motherhood.

Patient Graduation

After nearly two years with us, B.W.'s persistence paid off. She started with IUI treatments and later moved to IVF. With Dr. LeBlanc's care, her second frozen embryo transfer (FET) brought the success she had been hoping for, and she's now celebrating this long-awaited milestone!

WOMEN'S FERTILITY PRESERVATION OPTIONS

EGG FREEZING

Egg freezing preserves your eggs, ideally at the age of mid-thirties or earlier, giving you the flexibility to plan a family at a later age with your own viable eggs

FRESH & FROZEN DONOR EGGS

Donor eggs offer a valuable alternative when a patient can't use her own eggs for conception. Fresh eggs are for immediate use, while frozen eggs can be saved for future use that provide more flexibility.

EMBRYO FREEZING

Embryos are created through IVF by fertilizing eggs with sperm. Embryo freezing offers hope for future family planning for couples facing fertility challenges.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT WOMEN FERTILITY

HOW MANY EGGS DO YOU HAVE?

You are born with approximately 1 million eggs, and by the time of puberty, only about 300,000 remain.

Of these, only 300~400 eggs will ovulated during your reproductive lifetime.

COST FOR EGG FREEZING

The average cost for egg freezing can range anywhere from $6,000~$20,000.

AGE & EGG QUALITY

At 32, egg quality begins to decrease and declines rapidly after 37. Therefore, many women opt for freezing for future use.

EGG FREEZING WITH ASIAN EGG BANK

Egg freezing for banking for future use is costly, but our program can offer a solution to these who would like to work on this now!

DID YOU KNOW?

Egg Donation is FDA-approved and regulated, just like Blood and Marrow Donation. It's a generous and kind way of giving life and hope to others.
